ELD. Z. T. WILLIAMS' LETTER.

On Board Humbert, From Naples to Alexandria.

March 30, 1900.

Editor of the News: We arrived at Naples on the 27th inst. at 5 o'clock, as anticipated in my last letter. It was raining very hard when the steamer landed, but in a little while the ship was besieged with boatmen, hotel drummers and carriages, and all the chattering one heard—more than a lot of goose in feather time. Finally, one man approached who could speak English, who represented the Belle-Orou Hotel, and said he was an American soldier and would take us to a good hotel run by English speaking people. So, we bargained with him to take us to a shore and to the hotel, six of us, for 18 francs, equal to $2.20 in American money, which would be a little less than 44c. for each; and we were pleased with our bargain, and away we went in the little boat, baggage and all to the shore, into the Custom-House, and all the question asked us was, "Have you any tobacco, cigars, etc., and as none of us use tobacco, save one, and he had divided his supply, putting in the pockets of the other fellows, and had none in his grip. Then we took two carriages to Hotel Belle-Orou, which was some distance from the custom-house, well situated, the proprietor speaking English very nicely; but when we came to settle with the old American soldier, we were charged with 24 francs instead of 18. So on explaining the matter he said he had to pay the porters for carrying our grips from boat, through custom-house to carriages, and had tipped the custom-house officers with a few francs in order to help us through. But we told him we had carried our own grips and had not authorized him to pay any one to favor us. So we paid him according to agreement and left him swearing. This was our first experience with the well-known Italian way of doing business. If this old fellow had been an American soldier, he was well up in Italian tricks. Our hotel was all we could ask, and very cheap, eight francs per diem. We had a good supper and all enjoyed it, as we had gotten completely worn out with burnt coffee and lean beef and poor goose. After supper, which they call dinner, we took a stroll around the city. We were pleased with the clean appearance of the city with its brilliantly lighted streets, which are lighted with electricity. But we were soon besieged by street archers, who tried to sell us some little something, and we got them on the run—after McGrawey, who would say once and awhile, "get away from here! I don't want your stuff; I wish I could see a policeman."

We found we could get a ship next day at 5 o'clock for Alexandria; so we had a good night's rest and rose early next morning to see from our hotel windows the majestic Vesuvius, which was in plain view. The sun was up and the mountain was almost east of us. We could see it as it appeared in all its grandeur and beauty. We had an elevated place, overlooking the city and beholding the mountain. The wind was a little south and gave us a fine view, as the smoke from the crater rose up entirely above us and then floated off northward in great billows of majestic clouds with silvery lining. I never expect to see it more beautiful than it was that morning. But we expected to leave Naples that evening, so we deferred seeing any important things until our return from the ocean, as we purpose to come back that way. We spent the forenoon in visiting the American Consul and getting our express check cashed and buying tickets for Alexandria, which we finished by 1 o'clock and returned to the hotel for lunch. We went thence to our ship, Humbert, an Italian vessel, and went aboard for Alexandria.

We found our vessel a commodious one in some respects better than the Spartan Prince. There are eleven now in our company bound for the Holy Land, and will go together part of the way. Two are Lutheran ministers, one named Dornblater, from Dixon, Ill., the other by the name of Koser, of Arrendville, Rome. Also one gentleman and three ladies from Chicago, Ill., and a young man from Russia. We have a jolly company all told, as preachers are generally noted for cheerfulness, and can have more innocent fun together than any other professional men. We hope to arrive at Alexandria in three and one-half days, which will put us there Sunday morning at 6 o'clock if the vessel makes her usual time. On the next morning after we left Naples, at 8 o'clock. We anchored at Messina, one of the chief towns of the island of Sicily. Went a shore to spend a few hours in seeing the sights. Messina is the second town in population and importance on the island. Its population is 128,000 all told, and has the best harbor in the world. No less than 4,000 large vessels visit this port every year from all parts of the world. There were at least 10 to 12 large vessels anchored in her harbor that day. We saw there our first English war vessel. She was a cruiser and of good size. We were anxious to board her and see one of England's war guns, but the hard rain kept us away. We were now on sacred ground. The Apostle Paul, on his journey from Jerusalem, as a prisoner, to Rome, Acts 27th and 28th, sailed from Sidon on the coast of Palestine via the island of Crete, and after the vessel was wrecked they wintered at Malta, then Miletus. Here Paul did some miracles, and after three months embarked on a ship for Alexandria and sailed by Syracuse on the coast of Sicily and tarried three days, then came to Rhegium, now Reggio, which is close by Messina, on the coast of Southern Italy. After one day they sailed to Ostia, near where Naples now stands. So for the first time on this tour we are crossing the track of the great Apostle to the Gentiles. And as we look on this deep blue sea, knowing that we are now near where Paul was 14 days in a storm and ate nothing, some sacred meditations come to our memory. All to-day and last night the sun was rough and yesterday a heavy gale blew all day. But we do hope that we will not have to encounter an encroachment, as Paul did, Acts, 27:14.

Arrived at Alexandria Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, and must say in behalf of the Egyptians that they are more reliable than the Italians. We had the pleasure here of landing at the docks and avoided the unpleasant boat ride to the shore. We had the fortune of meeting up with a dragon, Moses David, who had brought us to a good hotel and we secured a good room, suitable to accommodate six of our party, for two dollars per diem or 88c cents each. We will take our meals at a cafe. We are well pleased with our quarters here, and hope to see all that we wish and leave to-morrow for Cairo. We have now been over the principle part of the city and have seen Pompeii's pillar, which is one of the most important of all the ancient monuments here. It is 104 feet high; the shaft is 6 feet high, and 9 feet in diameter at the bottom and eight feet at the top. It stands on a neglected spot near the ruins of some ancient buildings, without fence or any thing to indicate that the one to whose memory it stands, had an important history. We then drove to the garden, originally owned by the Kedive, but now owned by a private citizen, who bought it from the Kedive for about $1,000. We had a splendid drive by the side of the canal, some four miles out, and felt when we came out the garden we were well paid for our drive. When we entered the garden a most delightful spring-like fragrance greeted us from the flowers and blooms of the various fruit trees of the garden. It contains the largest variety of flowers and fruits of any thing of the kind we ever saw, and I might say in the world. We decided not to visit the Museum at this place, as the one at Cairo is so much superior and has about the same thing. We are now in Cairo, the ancient Egyptian city. We will spend several days here, and I will write up this place in my next. It is little amusing to those not interested, to us, Americans, puzzled over the value of money of the various nations as we travel. For instance, in Italy we had the centesims and lire. Five centesims make one cent; 100 centesims one frank or lire—20 centesims. But we had no trouble with the Egyptian money, that is the group coin we have met. Five piastres make 5 cents and corresponds with our nickel. Twenty-five piastres to our 50c piece, and so on, they being about the size of our dollar. We learned the run of these coins very quickly. We are all delighted with the variety of things to be seen in Egypt. From Alexandria to Cairo by rail is one grand panorama from start to finish. We met with wonderful change in the climate here. We are compelled to exchange our heavy underwear for light. The mosquitoes and gallinippers thick as hops, and some of the boys do complain a little of bed-bugs. We expect to take our first donkey ride to-morrow. They race like boys here and go with a push. I mean a boy follows with a long lash and does the pushing. We are keeping real well and getting plenty of goat milk and butter. We take the milk boiled and eat the butter with both eyes and nose closed. Good bye.

Tortured A Witness.
Intense suffering was endured by witness T. L. Martin, of Dixie, Ky., before he gave this evidence: "I coughed every night until my throat was nearly raw; then tried Dr. King's New Discovery which gave instant relief. I have used it in my family for four years and recommend it as the greatest remedy for Coughs, Colds and All Throat, Chest and Lung troubles. It will stop the worst cough, and not only prevents but absolutely cures Consumption. Price 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at T. E. Paul's Drug Store."

The Spring Poet.
From The Louisville Times—"Col. Billy Breckinridge is not the only Easter songbird on the limb. We present herewith as a companion piece to his gladness spring outburst, the following trill from the meadow throat of Mr. Coogler, the cockatoo poet of South Carolina."
"Spring is here. The rays of the morning sun kiss the dew from the lips of the budding rose. The little violet a mass of love darts, as we gaze on its tender leaves, the sweetest gift of spring. From the valleys and hills to the very heavens above the air is filled with the sweetest notes of love. * * * On the hills bedecked with flowers fair and grasses green we behold the grandest picture our eyes have ever seen. The woodcock hammers on the bark of the maple log, while into the lay streamlet leaps the frog. The rabbit plays in the sand beside the lonely mill while the watchdog is heard across the distant hill. The bluebird, the gentlest and fairest bird of spring, is wearing by the stroke of the martin's cruel wing."

A Warning.
Pain or soreness in the back must never be neglected. Kidney diseases creep on us with only that warning. WEDNESDAY, MAY 6.

THE TESTIMONY OF CULTON.

The Louisville Post, the leading Republican paper of Kentucky—the one the Republicans look to for truth in all matters political, the paper which has been daily claiming that there were no cases against the parties indicted for the murder of Governor Goebel, editorially throws up the sponge. We copy the following from its issue of last Thursday:

"Yesterday the Evening Post published a stenographic report of the hearing on the motion for a change of venue; to-day we give a similar report of the testimony of Culton on motion for bail.

"At last all the facts are coming out; if not by the testimony of one witness, by the testimony of all its proportions. It is not now trickling through the columns of sensational newspapers in just the proportion and form and color to suit the personal and political prosecutors, but it comes as all such testimony should come, from the mouth of the witness under direct and cross-examination.

"If delay caused by a desire to hang Taylor and dam the Republican party has not gone too far, the truth may now be reached, the guilty man discovered and his confederates, if he had confederates, be apprehended. The testimony yesterday is not conclusive, but it is important. It is the testimony of one witness under indictment. It is not the testimony of a conspiracy of complicity. It touches many events and involves many important matters. If not the truth, if not all the truth, it may lead to the truth. Culton has not told any thing to hang Taylor or dam the Republican party. That evidence seems altogether lacking in any narrative. Not even the many events before the grand jury, uncontradicted, justified the indictment of Taylor. Now that the process of the law and the machinery of the law are directed toward the development of the facts, instead of toward establishing a theory, the mystery which for three months has enveloped this crime may be dispelled, the guilty found and the innocent vindicated. That at least must be the hope of every man worthy to be a citizen of Kentucky."

The Louisville Post has been one of the most extreme persecutors of Democracy of all the anti-Democratic publications in the state. It has abused and condemned every effort made by Democrats to bring to light the truth, and assassinated known to the country, but there comes a time when truth must triumph—when facts pass aside theories, when doubts and excuses must vanish, when plain straight statements made under oath by credible witnesses. We have never doubted the intentions of those who are at work to uncover the whole plot, neither have we doubted the intentions and desires of those who have condemned every effort made to bring to light the parties who committed the deed, and we have not had a doubt as to the discovery of the assassin and the murderous gang of conspirators. Just now it seems that the truth, approximating the whole truth, will dispel the doubts and vanish the theories of those who have heretofore been prone to see the innocent will suffer; that those who are at work on the case must have revenge by the death of some one, whether guilty or not. The Post has been a leading factor—an adept teacher in manufacturing of the above mentioned theories, but its editor, Mr. Knott, can no longer advance theories to support the sworn statements that have been recently made under a severe cross-examination, so he apparently throws up the sponge and admits the fact that all men are not perjurors, and that the murders may yet be discovered and correctly handled. We believe that will not be a great while until those who are now attacking the motives of the prosecution and insisting that it is persecution, will be pleading mercy for the guilty.

"An effort is being made to put paper and pulp on the free list. This, it is thought will tend to reduce the price of paper, and be a relief to newspaper publishers, as well as the people, all over the county."—Columbia Spectator.

There is not a doubt as to the correctness of the above. The protective tariff placed on paper and paper materials has clearly demonstrated the fact that the consumers are not the beneficiaries of a high tariff, but to the contrary the manufacturers only. The tariff on paper and paper materials has enabled American paper manufacturers to demand and to get an exorbitant price for the product of their mills. The publishers of other papers of paper have realized this by paying at least 75 per cent. more for paper than they paid one year ago—before American paper mills were united into a great trust under the tariff that enables them to almost rob, that shuts out foreign competition, leaving us entirely in the hands of the paper trust. Now, if a high tariff on paper enables our home manufacturers to combine and to extract unjust profits from the people, then it stands to reason that a high tariff on any other article will enable the manufacturers of that article to pool their interest into one great trust, and rob the consumers by degrees. If true as to one article it is true as to all. If wrong and hurtful to the great common people to pay tribute to the paper manufacturers, protected by a high tariff, then it is equally wrong and hurtful to pay the price demanded by other manufacturers and traders that flourish and grow fat under a protective tariff. The manufacturers of paper are taking millions of dollars from publishers by their skillful organization and greed under the robber tariff. The same is true of almost every article that dodges behind the tariff wall. We are glad to see the Spectator come to the open on this one article, as it directly affects the interest of every publisher in the land, but we can not see why it should not apply the same medicine to other articles and condemn high taxation for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many.

Bail was refused W. H. Culton, indicted as an accessory to the murder of Gov. Goebel. The hearing of testimony closed last Saturday. Mr. Ramsey made a strong appeal for his client, the Commonwealth refused to argue. While on the witness stand stated that the plot was not only to kill Goebel, but speaker of the House, St. Trimble, and Judge of the Court of Appeals were, to have been killed. William Mitchell was also marked for death. Golden also made a serious charge against ex-Gov. Bradley.

Culton's testimony makes it dark for "outlet," designates Jas. Howan as the man who fired the fatal shot implicates W. S. Taylor, Chas. Finley, Caleb Powers and himself. It is said that Powers did some tall cussing when he was told that Culton would take the witness stand in his own behalf.

By vote of 226 to 35 the House last week passed the Nicaragua Canal Bill, though a vigorous fight was made against any action this session. During the debate there was a stormy scene between Representatives Hepburn and Cannon, and the lie was frequently passed.

The Ninth District Republicans have re-nominated Hon. S. J. Pugh for Congress. The Democratic convention will be held June 6.

AND CHAIN GEAR MOWER

Kentucky Squirrel, No. 427.

By Red Squirrel, heby Black Squirrel

Will make the present season at Barbee & Grison's livery stable in Columbia and will serve as a for the low sum of $10.00 to insure a living colt. Money due when colt is foaled or mare traded or removed.

DESCRIPTION.—Kentucky Squirrel was foaled in 1887; is a brown 154 hands and is rich and fashionably bred. We do not believe there is a saddle station living that can out act him. As a three-year-old he was shown all through Kentucky and was never defeated in his ring, and at the close of the season he was sold to J. W. Hides, of Richmond, Ky., for $1,000. He is a perfect model, a horse of wonderful endurance, and a very superior actor. He has proven himself a number one brooder. S. T. Harrison, of Lexington, recently sold a mare sired by him for $800. If you want a horse that is large enough, fine enough and does enough breed to Kentucky Squirrel.

Mr. Oscar Pile, who has been quite sick for several weeks, was upon our streets last Saturday.
Mrs. Roy Walker, of Nell, who was reported dangerously ill last week, is improving.
Mr. M. H. Marcum returned from Louisville Saturday night. His hand is very much improved.
Mr. W. L. Baker, cashier of the Monticello Bank, and wife, are visit- ing in Columbia.
Prof. A. H. Ballard and wife, who are teaching at Russell Springs, were in Columbia Saturday.
Mr. E. L. Pesse came down from Peyton Monday. He was smiling and the whole office knew it was a girl.
Mr. J. T. Collins and son, Lucien, Campbellville, were in Columbia last Saturday.
Mr. John Q. Alexander and wife, of Campbellville, were in Columbia a few days ago.
Mr. W. R. Patterson and wife have about recovered, and Mrs. Mary Patte- son is much better.
Miss Kate Murrell, who has been in Louisville for the past two weeks, returned home Saturday night.
Mrs. John Fuks and Mrs. Henry Shultz, who visited Mrs. Henry Fuks, this city, have returned to their homes in Taylor county.

LOCAL JOTTINGS.

Circuit court will begin Monday week.
Mr. Mr. Cravins will build a veranda to his residence.
Commission service at the Presby- terian church Sunday.
For Sale.—A nice lot of flowers. Call at once. Mrs. D. H. Butler.
Rev. Harwood is preaching a series of sermons at the Methodist church.
We can furnish you fertilizer at $1.30 per 100 pounds and up. W. F. Jeffries & Son.
The wife of Mr. Nathan Butler, who lived near Portland, Adair county, died last Saturday night.
Slight frost last Thursday night. It was not strong enough to damage vegetation.
Mr. T. P. Jeffries sold to H. C. Bot- toms, 21 long yearling steers at $30.00 per head.
The saw mill which has been oper- ated on Sulphur Fork, near Tarter, has been removed to Taylor county.
For Sale.—Two year-old heifers. One will be fresh in three weeks. Also two year-old steers.
T. W. Wheat, Tarter, Ky.
When you visit Louisville, stop at the New Phoenix Hotel. First-class fare and well located, corner of 7th and Market Streets.
There have been quite a number of swells in Columbia and vicinity during the past few weeks. Mumps has been prevalent.
I will be permanently located in Co- lumbia by the 25th of May, and this city will be my main headquarters for receiving produce. Bring it in.
S. M. Lewis.
It is said that the farmers of Adair county are farther advanced with their crops than for many years, this early in the spring.
For Sale.—One seven-year-old cow, will be fresh in three weeks. Also four good sheep.
Ben L. Royce, Nantaburg, Ky.
The trustees of the Nantaburg school met last Saturday and sold their old school building for $18. They will erect a neat, convenient building in the near future.
John and Ernest Harris, now have a wheel-out of school and on to a wheel- seems to be the order now—its differ- ence to a few years ago. How can a boy get along without a bicycle.
Many persons in the county are an- noyed to know when the bridges will be put up. It is our understanding that the contractor hopes to begin the work in the month of August. The material is being gotten out at the factory, and when it reaches the county it will take but a short time to finish up.

It pays to buy the best fertilizer for your crops. See W. F. Jeffries & Son before buying.
Mrs. Kate Hughes has removed to Columbia and is occupying the re- sidence, on Burkville street, she recent- ly purchased, opposite the Methodist church.
Parties who owe me are requested to settle the same at once. Leave it at the News office, as I am now in Bus- sel county.
Moore Montgomery.
Mr. Porter Flowers, who is employ- ed in a saw-mill at Gradyville, met with a serious accident a few days ago. The particulars of which can be found in our Gradyville letter.
Prospects for fruit was never better at this time of year. The fruit would be a blessing to the country were it not for the little brandy distilleries that will be started in every hollow.
Lost.—A bay horse about 15 1/2 hands, short without crin in front, and corks on out side of hind shoes. In medium order. Return to A. H. Huns, Columbia, who will pay a reasonable reward.
Mr. W. T. Price now has charge of the barber shop at the Conover Hotel. Mr. Roberts having returned to Litchfield. There is not a better bar- ber in the State than Titus Price.
If this year is seasonable for corn it will be very cheap in this section as a large crop has been planted. Two or three parties in town are "crapping" a large scale and will have corn to sell.
The fill through Mr. James Garrett, Jr.'s, property leading up to where Mr. C. S. Harris will build, is being made wider. The bridge crossing the branch has also been raised several feet high- er.
Last Monday was county court, but the crowd in town was not so large as usual. But little stock changed hands, and the Master Comptroller, Mr. Little, said. The merchants did a fair business.
A party of young people in town were sadly disappointed last Sunday. Ar- rangements had been made for park- ing of the carative waters of Grifling Springs, but it rained almost the entire day.
The King Mantel Company, 224 West Jefferson St., Louisville, sell the best and cheapest mantels in the city. They represent three of the best fac- tories, and manufacturer much of their stock. 5-3-3m.
Mr. Otto Jones, who recently bought a piece of land from N. M. Tuitt and Rollin Hurt, which lies near Tarter, is getting a great deal of good timber off the land, and will be ready to ship many staves this and next week.
Base Ball.
An effort will be made on next Thurs- day night to organize the Columbia base ball team. All the old members and as many others as possible are re- quested to be present at the meeting in the News office.

The regular term of Prof. T. A. Ba- ker's school closed last Friday. For the next two weeks Mr. Baker will teach a normal. He is a splendid teacher, and the term just closed was one of the best years of the M. & F. High School.
Jim Richardson, editor of the Glas- gow Times, is getting fastidious in his old days of journalism. He has cut the Louisville Dispatch from his ex- change list for the simple reason he does not care to associate with green flies.
Danville is to have a new Democrat- ic paper. The company at the head of the enterprise purchased the Record plant, Middleborough. The new Dan- ville paper will be run by the Cunning- ham Bros., who had charge of the Record.
Miss Edna Bradshaw entertained a party of young people last Tuesday evening, and Friday evening following several couples met at residence of Dr. Jo Rosenfield. It goes without saying that the young folks of Colum- bia know now to enjoy themselves when they get together.
I have made a contract for a large lot of fine flour which I will sell at $1.90 per 100 pounds, for cash only.
W. L. WALKER.
Mr. J. L. Johnson, of this county, has a South down or Down south ram, one and one-half years old that weighs 160 pounds. Mr. Johnson says his sheep will weigh 25 pounds by the time he is two years old. Who has a larger sheep?
Attention.
I am still in the produce business and am prepared to handle more than I have been in the past. I will pay the highest market price for all com- munity produce.
R. B. WILSON.
We will on Monday June the 4th 1900, move the Judge of the Adair county court to so change the boundary of Har- mony and East Columbia voting pre- cincts as to exclude us from Harmony and include us in the East Columbia voting precinct.
C. M. and J. F. MEDARS.
There is some doubt in the minds of a great many people hereabouts as to the number of distilleries revenue off- icers have destroyed near Pickett's mill, in Adair County, and in Green county, just over the Adair line in the last twelve months. They report from twenty-five to twenty-seven. "Rats." Draw your own conclusion.
Columbia and Liberty will soon be connected by telephone. A line is now being built from the latter place to Kalfier, in Adair county, and when completed the people of Columbia can extend greetings to the citizens of Liberty. This line has been discussed for several years, and it will afford a much needed convenience to the people living all along the line. "Hailos, Kalfier!" Give me Liberty, please."

Sometime ago this community felt quite an interest, or at least had hopes of a good school being located in this town by our Methodist brethren, but the fondest hopes vanished and we are here to blame out our own way in the educational line. Now we have informa- tion from reliable interested parties that the school question is still alive, and that if we will do our part at least toward it, our friends, Presbyterians brethren will assist in establishing a school here upon the same basis as offered by the Louisville Conference at Rate R. F. Walton, who has been acting this question with- in his church, tells us that Dr. Mc- Donald, of Danville, will be in Colum- bia within a few days for the purpose of investigating this field and to see what can be done. The Presbyterians hope to endow the school and raise the grade of the school. They will expect help from the people of this section, and should have it. Those who are interested in securing better edu- cational facilities, and those who feel an interest in the moral and business advancement of this town and commu- nity, ought not to be indifferent to this opportunity. Now is the time for us to work and work together. A good school is the life of a town.
Dick or Mont Burton, whose parents it is said live at Campbellville, has gotten himself into a trouble which in all probability will terminate in the breaking of his neck.
